

Transformational Fun

I had the pleasure of hiring Lisa to help me with my professional wardrobe recently. I had gotten into some lazy habits of dress that were in dire need of reversal.

Most of my go-to wardrobe was dated and ill-fitting. We spent half a day trying every single thing on, and determined what could “stay” and what had to “go.” Lisa has a great eye, and we were able to edit my existing wardrobe down to a manageable state. Then, the fun began. We took to a shopping trip with a list and a plan. The day went well and we found some great pieces to go with the items that were deemed acceptable to keep, after that first edit. Lisa is a smart shopper and found us some great values that I am really happy with.

What has been fun since our day together is finding new combos to wear together. I’m surprised by some of the new items that we bought that have great versatility, and can work in many combinations. Lisa helped me find some new styles that I might not have picked out for myself, but they have netted some very nice compliments since I’ve worn them. I’m a believer in this service, and recommend it for a gal in need of a transformation. ~ Avery, Product Developer
